This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

BOOK PRODUCTION IN 1903

IN THE UNITED STATES

"THE books of 1903" counted up 7865, a total slightly in excess of that of 1902, which was 7833. The output of the past year differs so little from the harvests of the two previous years that it suggests nothing very new in the way of comment or criticism. The remarks applied to the quantity and quality of the books of 1901 and 1902 could easily serve again in describing the literature of the year under review. It was not a year of great achievements, although a year of many books. In scarcely any department of literature can a very large number of books be pointed out destined to a long life. The low average of the year was especially noticeable in fiction, which embraced few works that created marked enthusiasm. There must, of course, be years when the literary wave recedes, leaving the shore bare, or strewn with wrecks and lifeless forms. This seems to have been such a year. Should we be surprised that it sometimes comes, when we consider the needs of the publishers, whose mills must be kept going, and whose readers' demands may not be ignored? The natural result is overworked authors, whose inventive and working powers are necessarily limited. The year was the opportunity of the younger and least known of our authors, but they generally failed to come up to the high mark our older novelists had set for them. Aside from the flood of novels, the only noticeable feature in fiction was the almost entire absence of translations from Continental languages. American books in all departments were in the lead. The unusual number of works on sociology seems to be a reflection of the unsettled conditions of the times. Where apparently permanent additions were made was in the department of Biography and Memoirs, which included delightfully readable works.

The Publishers' Weekly put on record during 1903 through its "Weekly Record of New Publications" 7865 books. Included in this total are the many new editions of standard works and issues of series. These new editions counted 2072 books. The new books counted 5793, making together the total of 7865. While we only recorded in 1903 32 more books than in 1902, when the total for the year was 7833, our tables show it was really a greater publication year than the previous one, the number of new books exceeding the new books of 1902 by 308. There were but slight changes in the various classes. Fiction still takes the lead, though not numerically so great as in several previous years. Law and Theology and Religion have gone down to the fourth and fifth places in our table, while Literature and Collected Works and Education have moved up to the second and third positions. History and Biography are classes notably fuller than in any past year. The other departments display few changes. Of these books 3549, an excess of 164 over 1902, were received at this office, and 4316 had their titles gathered from copyright entries, from publishers' notes and in various other ways.

The first table which follows gives in classes the figures, approximately, of the book production in this country in 1903, with those of 1902 for comparison:

The second table attempts to show the number of books manufactured in the United States in 1903—first, those by American authors; second, those by English or other foreign authors made in this country according to the demands of copyright law, and third, the books in English imported bound or in sheets, these three classes comprising the book production of the United States in 1903.

Digitized by Google

The first and second classes are almost all copyright books. This table, like the former, scarcely claims to be exactly correct, as it is impossible always to trace the history of a work, from its author to its final publication. The table shows 5621 books by American authors against 5210 of 1902; 1356 books by English or other foreign authors, (made here,) against 1578 of 1902, and 888 books or sheets imported, against 1045 of 1902. The reprints were, as usual, the largest in Fiction, amounting to 396 books, far less, however, than in 1902, when 818 English or other foreign novels were reprinted. The very evident fact illustrated by the figures is the greater number of books by American authors published than in 1902 in every class.

The great decrease in all the more serious departments of literature, as well as in some of the very lightest ones, such as Sports and Amusements, Humor and Satire, as exhibited by the figures in both tables, is a curious and unexplainable condition of our book production. Scientific and profoundly philosophical writings are as conspicuous through their absence as are the simply amusing books.

REPORT OF THE REGISTER OF COPYRIGHTS FOR 1903

THE copyright business for the calendar year 1903, according to the report of Thorvald Solberg, Register of Copyrights, is the largest in any one year in the history of the Copyright Office. Not only is the amount of the net fees larger, but also the number of entries and the number of articles deposited.

The total number of entries approached the 100,000 mark, the exact number being 99,436. In addition to these titles entered, it was necessary to carry over for entry January 2, 1904, titles received in November and December, to the number of 1307, because the articles bore notice of copyright containing the date of claim of 1904. Actually, therefore, 100,743 titles were received for registration in the year 1903.

The total fees received and applied for the year 1903 amounted to $70,230.50.

The new year, 1904, also promises to be large, the entries made on the first legal day, (January 2,) numbering 4031, at applied fees for this one day amounting to $2186.

The number of articles deposited during the year 1903 also exceeds the number in any previous year, amounting to 180,527 articles.

upon the current work of the office, leaving the excess of fees earned over appropriations used for service, $108,023.44 for the six years.

No exact statement can be made of the other expenditures on behalf of the Copyright Office. They include the cost of stationery and other supplies, ($881.05,) record books, circulars, and blank forms supplied by the Government Printing Office, and the printing of the "Catalogue of Title Entries" of copyright articles, amounting to 5067 octavo pages in 1903.

COPYRIGHT OFFICE WORK.

The current work of the Copyright Office is now kept as nearly up to date as is possible in an office where the daily business is so fluctuating.

The question is frequently asked how soon it is possible to obtain a certificate after an application has been filed. The great variance in the number of titles filed per day leads to considerable unavoidable corresponding variance in the time of mailing the certificate or notice. Taking, however, a fairly normal month for illustration; during November, 1903, a month having 24 working days, the bulk of the certificates for 2 dates were mailed within three days; for 14 dates within four days; for 6 dates within five days, and for 2 dates within six days; but in the case of 3 dates certificates for certain classes required seven days before mailing, and on November 28 the periodical entries were so numerous that nine days were required to clear the certificates of that class. It should be remembered that the month included five Sundays and one holiday, Thanksgiving Day. The average time, therefore, may be said to be about five days, although the certificates for 16 out of the 24 total days were mailed within four days. The total entries for the month were 7352; the largest number on any one day, 624, and the smallest number on any one day, 149.

At this date 4 P.M. January 6, all entries for the calendar year ending December 31 have been made and recorded; certificates made, revised and mailed, and all the entries have been indexed, the index cards for the year numbering 163,226. The deposited articles have been credited to December 31 in all classes, and in some classes to later dates, while some of the January entries have been made as shown by the detailed statement following.

about a hundred below 1899 and 1898, four hundred below 1897, and a thousand above 1902; but there is an increase in recorded miscellaneous of about five hundred, and most of these are pamphlets at a few pence each; while there were about three hundred sixpenny novels during the year, most of them, of course, "new editions," not new books. The total of fiction is about a hundred more than in the previous year. Theology, educational, politics and commerce are up in number, arts and sciences and law are down; history and biography, voyages and travels, about the same; medicine, year-books, belles-lettres, and poetry and the drama slightly up.

FRANCE

THE number of books published in France during 1903, according to the records of Bibliographie de la France, was 12,264, or 65 more than in 1902. In 1902, by the way, book production in France had reached an unusually low level, being, in fact, upwards of 800 titles less than in the ten preceding years. The number of musical compositions recorded in 1903 was 6824, or 105 more than were recorded in 1902, and the number of engravings, lithographs and photographs recorded in 1903 was 950, or 107 more than were recorded in 1902.

It is so difficult to get at the statistics of literary production year by year that it stands to reason that an estimate of the entire literary production of the world to the present day can only be relative, and largely a matter of expert opinion.

Paul Otlet, the Secretary of the Brussels International Bibliographic Institute, estimates the number of printed books since the invention of printing to January, 1900, at 12,163,000 separate works, and the number of periodicals at between 15 and 18 millions. The Publishers' Weekly in an article on "The Fallacy of Book Statistics" (January 11, 1902), pointed out how almost impossible it is to even gauge the entire book production of the earth. And even if the figures could be arrived at they would give us no accurate picture of the mental activity of authors and writers.

Peygnot and Otlet have estimated the number of books to 1898. For the following years Otlet adopts 200,000 as a yearly average. This seems rather high, and the figures of the table, which would make 150,000 per year a good average, seem more reliable. This would give the following schedule:

1436-1536	42,000
1536-1636	575,000
1636-1736	1,225,000
1736-1822	1,839,000
1822-1887	6,500,000
1887-1898	1,782,000
1899	150,000
1900	150,000
1901	150,000
1902	150,000
1903	150,000
	12,713,000

To the year 1904, therefore, upward of 12½ million of separate works have appeared in the world, which figures, however, include new editions and translations.

Otlet also estimates that since the introduction of printing the following percentage of different classifications of subject matter has held good:

Law and Sociology	25.42
Literature	20.46
Applied Science	12.18
History, Geography	11.44
Theology, Religion, Speculation	10
Miscellaneous and Bibliography	9
Philology and Languages	4.08
Natural Sciences	3.44
Art	2.62
Philosophy	1.36

As detailed statistics are only available for single countries, this must also be looked upon as an approximate estimate. In point of number of output, Germany and German Austria collectively yearly lead the world. Then follow France, Italy, England, the United States and the Netherlands. In speaking of classification and comparative mental value of publications, Russia and the Oriental countries are not taken into present consideration.

In creative works England leads the world, having by far the largest output of novels, romances and works of pure imagination. In Germany educational works, theological works and books for the young predominate. The largest number of historical works appear in France, and Italy leads in religious publications. The largest number of books published in the United States fall in the department of fiction, but works of fiction are generally duplicated in the English and American statistics, as novels of merit written in the English language almost invariably appear on both sides of the Atlantic.

According to Professor Otlet it may be roughly estimated that at the present rate of publication the average of books produced to every million inhabitants stands as follows in the most highly civilized countries of the world:

1	German Empire	354
2	France	344
3	Switzerland	338
4	Belgium	337
5	Italy	309
6	Sweden	300
7	Norway	262
8	Great Britain	175
9	Russia	85
10	United States	81
11	Spain	66

It seems safe to say that books number about two-thirds and newspapers about one-third of the entire literary production of the world. Of course, in the quantity of manufacture the periodicals far outnumber the book production. As far back as 1882 a calculation was made of the percentage of periodicals according to the languages in which they appeared, which resulted as follows:

	Per cent.
English	48
German	23
French	11
Spanish	6
Italian	2
Other languages	10

Professor Otlet made his estimate of the average of periodicals to a million inhabitants in 1898 as follows:

1 United States	510
2 Switzerland	320
3 Belgium	253
4 Holland	184
5 Germany	161
6 France	156
7 Great Britain	113
8 Austria	98
9 Chile	88
10 Italy	78
11 Russia	77
12 India	33
13 Japan	17
14 Egypt	11

The vast literary production of the world has naturally led to the growth of various manufactures that have made important changes in the economic conditions of many countries. The manufacture of paper has become an industry of enormous importance, as has also the manufacture of type and the various inventions that have taken the place of type. The manufacture of books and periodicals, their sale and circulation, employ great armies of men and women, and certainly in material ways the world is benefited by its fabulous book production.

THE BEST-SELLING TEN ENGLISH NOVELS OF 1903

The Pall Mall Gazette's popular vote as to the best-selling ten novels issued in 1903 has resulted in giving Henry Seton Merriman's "Barlasch of the Guard" a percentage of 81, Mrs. Humphry Ward's "Lady Rose's Daughter" a percentage of 65, F. Marion Crawford's "Heart of Rome," 51; Whiteing's "Yellow Van," 50; Stanley Weyman's "The Long Night," 44; Frank Danby's "Pigs in Clover," 44; Ellen Fowler's "Place and Power," 37; Quiller Couch's "Hetty Wesley," 33; Beatrice Harraden's "Katherine Frensham, 32; E. F. Benson's "Relentless City," 30.

Two deductions are made from the voting: Firstly, that the public are tired of the problem novel and also the serious work dealing adequately with serious social questions. Secondly, illustrations play a prominent part in successful works.

THE GOVERNMENT'S BEST-SELLING BOOKS

ACCORDING to the Washington correspondent of the New York Evening Post, the honor of turning out the "six best-selling books" in the government's diverse assortment remains pretty continuously with the Department of Agriculture, although some noteworthy outgiving of another branch of the government may occasionally break into the favored list. The report of L. C. Ferrell, the superintendent of documents, who conducts the great bookstore which the government has maintained since 1895, gives the following list of publications which enjoyed the largest sale: Department yearbooks, 3358; special report on diseases of the horse, 1300; special report on diseases of cattle, 1004; bulletin on ginseng, 3557; bulletin on the honey bee, 2135; chemical bulletin No. 46, 1636; bulletin on chemical composition of American food materials, 1330; bulletin on timber, 1809; primer of forestry, Part I., 1066. . . .

"Almost ridiculously small as these figures are by comparison with those blazoned forth in private publishers' announcements, they are probably a very much more trustworthy indication of popular interest. The government reports and bulletins are, in the first place, entirely unadvertised, and it is to nobody's interest to invest any one of them with a fictitious importance. Furthermore, it must be remembered that all these are books issued primarily for free distribution, but which so many thousand people wanted so badly that they were actually willing to pay for them. As human nature is constituted, the prosperous farmer will hesitate much longer before paying fifty cents for a really valuable government book which his neighbor, by writing early to the Hon. Mr. So-and-So, secured for nothing, than overpaying seven dollars in instalments for a morocco-bound and illustrated manual of etiquette. It may be depended upon that the people who bought these publications really wanted them, and the reason for wanting them is usually plain enough. . . .

"Something like 5000 titles are for sale "at cost," but the government's method of figuring up the cost would bankrupt a commercial publisher. All these books, it is argued, would have been issued anyhow, even if sales were never thought of. Therefore the composition and making of the plates—among a publisher's largest items—are not figured in the cost at all. There are no royalties or commissions, and the purchaser really pays only the bare cost of paper, binding and presswork. The bulky yearbooks, for instance, are sold at from fifty to eighty cents; the live stock books already referred to—which, by a bookseller's standards, would certainly retail at several dollars—are listed at sixty-five cents, and the bulletins usually cost from five to fifteen cents each."
